

User Interface Control for Changing a Parameter

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

[0063] A user interface comprises a control for adjusting a numeric field value. The control includes controls for editing the numeric field text directly and for dynamically incrementing and decrementing the value. In addition, the control includes controls for combining several functions into one control, allowing for quicker numeric value editing, control of multiple parameters, and taking up less user interface space.

18602/08908/DOCS/1419159.2